

Flow of events

The customer visits our site in order to purchase the goods, which are wedding dresses, accessories, a ceremonial suit, and others

The customer chooses the product he wants, for example: the wedding dress

He sends a request for it

This request reaches the admin (administrator)

The admin communicates with the client

The customer determines the appropriate payment method for him from several options set by the administration

The customer determines the appropriate time and place for receipt

And so the reservation has been made